Noah was the great-great-great-great-great-great-grandson of Adam. He was a good man, but most people in his day were wicked. He told them to repent, but they tried to kill him. He told them that because the people were so wicked, He would destroy all living things on the earth in a great flood. He commanded two to build an ark on which his family, and two or more of every animal saved. He built the ark, the animals went in, and two or more of every animal on earth went in. He, his wife, his three sons, and their wives went in. It started to rain. It rained harder and harder. Fountains opened under the sea and poured out water. It rained forty days and forty nights.

Noah was a just man, and... he walked with God (Moses 8:27).

Noah

Noah and the Flood (A rebus)
nights. The whole was covered with water. Everyone except the people animals on the was drowned. After 40 days, the stopped the were closed. The water started go. Months later, the came rest on a . sent a 2 C if the water was gone. The came back. The water was gone. sent the out again a week later, it came back with a in its . The water was going . The next week, sent the out once more, it did come back. The water was gone. When the was dry, his family the animals left the . built an gave thanks. made the in the as a that He destroy the again by flood. Many centuries later, as the angel Gabriel, told Zacharias that John the Baptist born Elisabeth. He also told Mary that she give birth was a great prophet, we all his descendants.

(See Genesis 5–8; Moses 8:13–30; Bible Dictionary—Gabriel.)
NOAH’S ARK
By Susan Fielden

picture window

| Noah preaching | People trying to kill Noah | Noah receiving revelation | Noah and his family building ark | Animals entering the ark |
To make a Noah’s ark with a story stage and story picture window, glue these pages to heavy paper. Cut out the ark, the story strip, and each of the story figures. Fold the ark on the broken lines (see diagram). Cut slits along the sides of the picture window. Thread the story strip through these slits, stopping on the first picture. The folded-back rainbow will prop the ark’s story stage. As you tell the story of Noah’s ark and the flood, pull the strip to the left, showing the picture of what you are talking about. At the same time, put the appropriate story figure in the folded-paper “stage” on the ark. As you finish telling the story, fold the rainbow up into the sky. You will have both a play and a picture-show of the story of Noah’s ark.