Employment Services

Needs
Searching for a job can be difficult, complex, and stressful. Employment is critical to self-reliance, but many qualified people struggle to find work because they lack job-seeking skills or needed resources like contacts or job leads. The struggle can negatively affect their finances, relationships, and mental and spiritual health.

Description
Individualized job search coaching and support are available through Employment Services. Individuals can get help by visiting the Church’s Employment Services website, Employment.ChurchofJesusChrist.org. In some areas, they may also visit an employment resource center for in-person assistance.
Available resources include:

- The Accelerated Job Search program. This provides skill practice, peer support and feedback, accountability, networking, and resource sharing. Groups meet daily, both online and in person.
- Live, online job search skills workshops. These are offered daily and provide professional training on topics such as where to find job leads, résumés, networking, and interviewing.
- One-on-one coaching and support. These are available both in person and virtually.
- Employment resources such as employers, job leads, and networking contacts.
- Career exploration and planning assistance.
- Self-employment support and resources such as training, funding information, and mentors.

Who is this for?
Employment Services helps those who are unemployed, underemployed, reentering the workforce, or looking to improve their current employment situation. Services provided are not just for Church members. Anyone is welcome to visit Employment.ChurchofJesusChrist.org or an employment resource center.

How it works
Employment Services specializes in assisting individuals who are actively job searching with an immediate need. To get help and learn more about the services available, visit Employment.ChurchofJesusChrist.org.
